Message from the President

“May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ lead all of our lives to peace and justice”

The world we live in faces a worsening crisis with each passing day. Economic globalization, escalating religious and ideological conflicts, and a global pandemic have led to the rise of global poverty and widening of inequality. Terrorism and war have led refugees to flee from their homes. Conflicts between generations and nations grow more severe each day. In this context, the confession of Jesus as the Lord of Peace and Justice became a prophetic act, calling for more concrete and courageous decision.

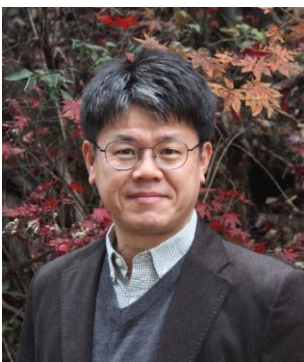

The program of ‘Studies in Ecumenism and Social Transformation (S.E.S.T.)’ at Hanshin University aims to awaken the churches worldwide to take responsible action to reform such a world and to train Christian leaders who will make a difference. The program is designed for students to acquire an effective leadership for solidarity in domestic and international levels.

All the members of Hanshin community welcome you, from all over the world, with our heart. We will embrace you in one faith, one hope and one love. I firmly believe that your experience of learning, sharing and practices in the S.E.S.T. program will empower you to become a leader who will transform this world for a better future.

Rev. Dr. Kang, Sung-Young
President
Hanshin University

Message from the Dean

“A Cradle of Asian Contextual Theology and Social Spirituality”

The Graduate School of Theology at Hanshin University, recognized as the birthplace of Korean minjung theology, carries a distinguished legacy of transformative ecumenism and a forward-looking vision for nurturing future ecumenical leaders. Since 2012, the SEST program has been uniquely designed for students who discern a vocation toward social and ecclesial transformation within the ecumenical tradition. This two-year Master’s program, offered with full tuition support, welcomes dedicated and dynamic students from Asia and across the globe. We invite you to embark on this inspiring journey with us.

Rev. Dr. Kim, Hiheon
Dean of the Graduate School of Theology

I Brief History of Hanshin University

Hanshin University had its beginnings as the Chosun Theological Seminary, founded in 1940 and originally located in Seungdong Church in Insadong, Seoul. In 1951 the name of the Seminary was changed to Hankook Theological Seminary. Since its inception, the seminary has emphasized the core educational values of freedom of learning and freedom of conscience, veering away from dogmatism and authoritarianism. Due to the growing need for well-educated persons for the Christian Ministry in the local churches of the Presbyterian Church in the Republic of Korea (PROK), a new campus site in Suyu-ri was acquired to accommodate the growing number of enrollees.

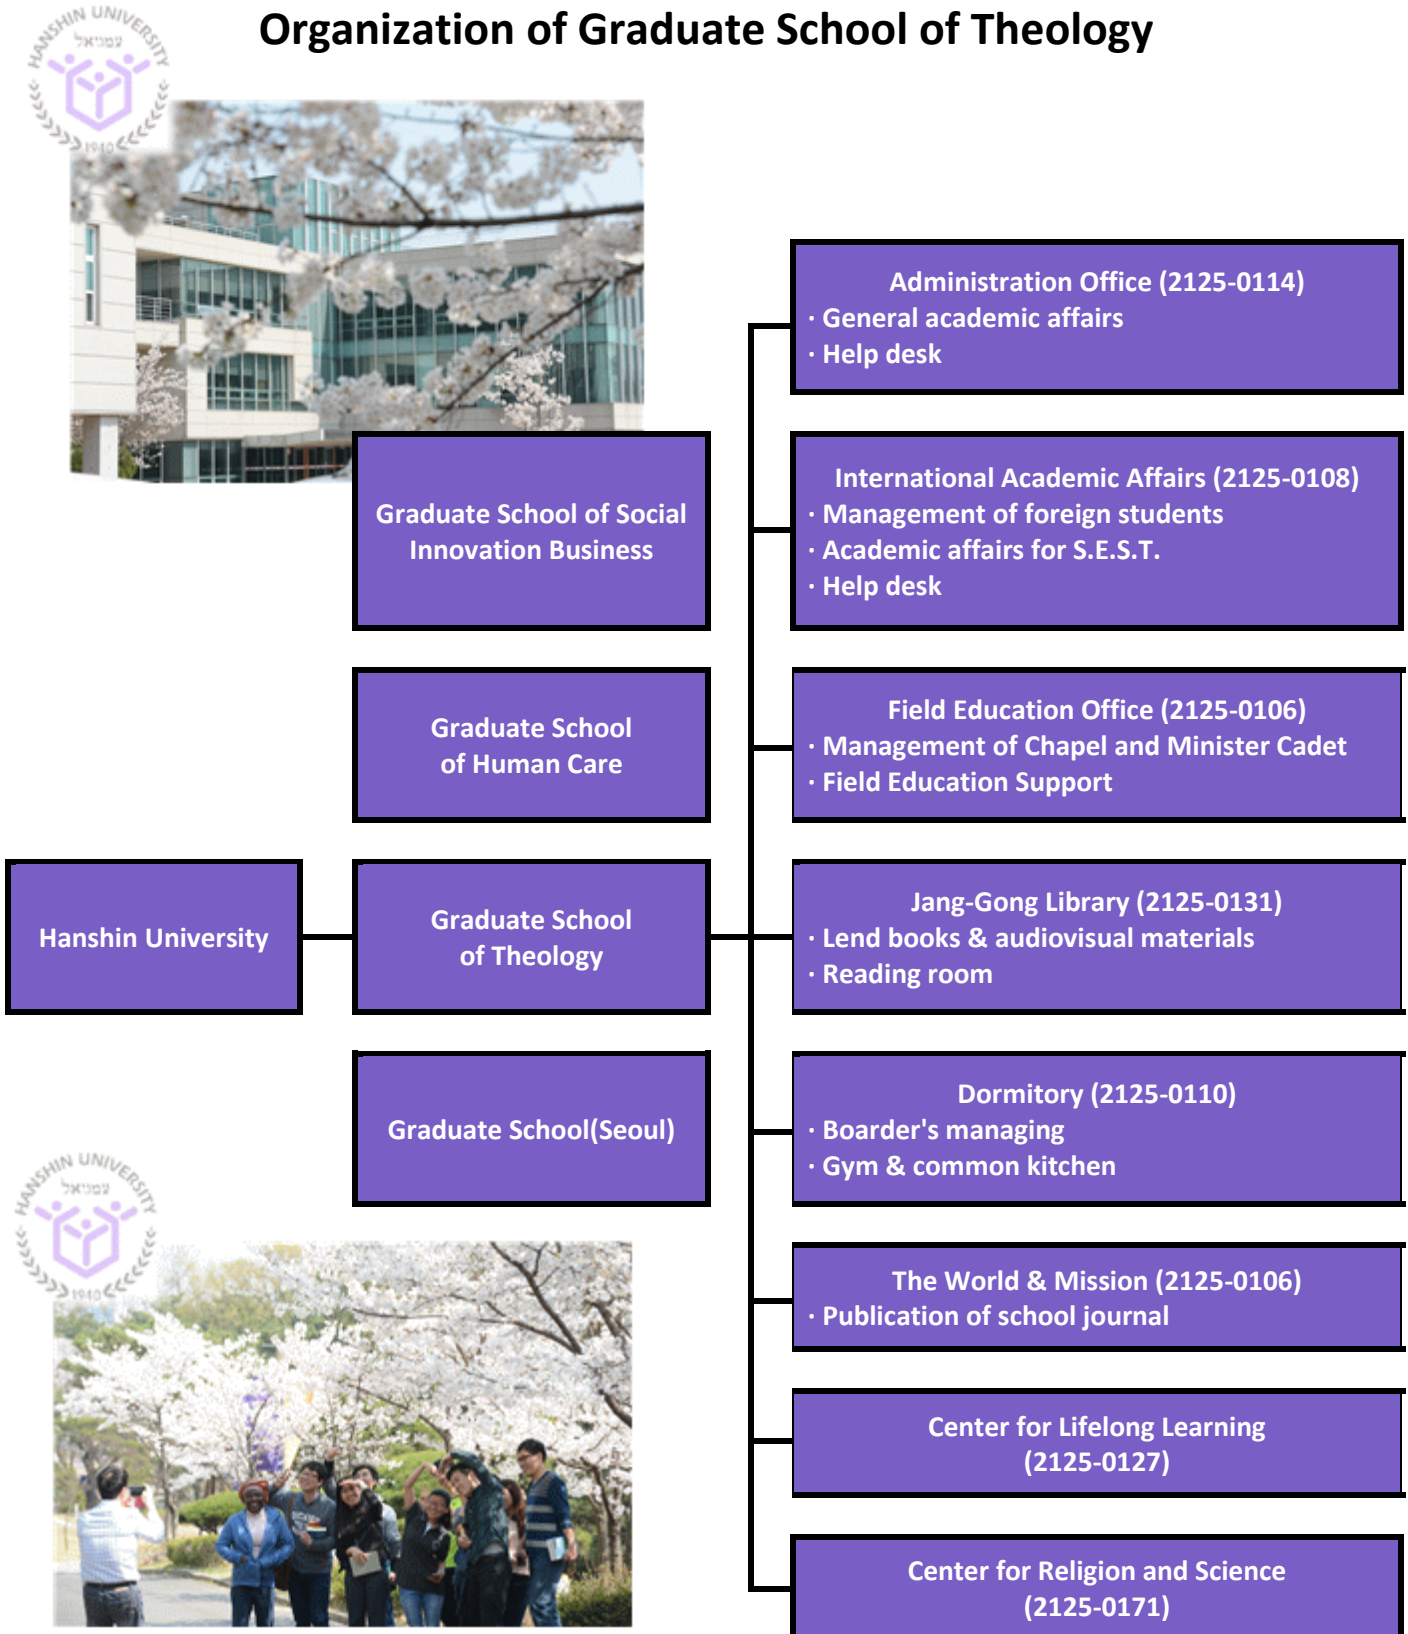

The prophetic witness of the churches in society was growing in the midst of militarization and despotic political hegemony in 1970s and 1980s. Amidst the struggle for democratization and freedom, the need for strengthened educational institution emerged out of the fervent hopes and arduous labors of the church leaders and the school administrators. A crucial decision to expand the seminary into a full-blown university made it possible to purchase the campus site in Osan City.

Hankook Theological Seminary acquired its university status in 1979, with the sustained financial and moral support by the PROK churches, individuals and overseas partners. New buildings, such as dormitories, lecture halls, laboratories, chapels, cafeteria and other facilities were constructed to make the university one of the best learning institutions in Republic of Korea. In 1997 the government Ministry of Education selected Hanshin University as one of the leading higher educational institution in the country alongside other top notch universities.

The foundation of the Hanshin University was laid by Elder Kim Dae Hyun, Rev. Song Chang Keun, and Rev. Kim Chai Choon. It has produced some of most renowned church leaders and activists who have left their indelible marks on Korea's modern history with personages like Chang Chun Ha, a prominent leader for democracy, and Rev. Moon Ik Hwan, a revered pro-unification activist. The tradition is still alive in the Graduate School of Theology. It continues to develop its academic and practical programs to nurture students in pursuing peace and justice and making a commitment to change the society in accordance with Christian values and hopes.

Hanshin University has more than five thousand students in both campuses, in Osan city and Seoul, as of 2025. About two hundred students are currently enrolled in the Graduate School of Theology. The English-based academic program (Th. M.) of the Graduate School of Theology, Studies in Ecumenism and Social Transformation (S.E.S.T.), had been launched in the year of 2012.

Organization of Graduate School of Theology

Studies in Ecumenism & Social Transformation

The Graduate School of Theology

Hanshin University

Seoul, Republic of Korea

I Goals

- To foster young people and adults in developing relevant and effective ecumenical leadership at both domestic and international levels.
- To facilitate a community-oriented and socially transformative learning process that promotes cross-cultural understandings and ecumenical spirit.
- To strengthen a network of ecumenical leaders who are guided by transformative religious and social ethics, and committed to building a society founded on peace and justice.

I General Introduction for the Program

- The program leads to Master of Theology (Th. M.) degree, which will be granted to students who complete the course requirements prescribed by Hanshin University.
- The curriculum is designed to balance two main areas: two-thirds of courses are related to ecumenical studies, while one-third is focuses to social transformation.
- The curriculum is designed to connect theory and practice. Through practical classes, this program aims to correlate theological and social issues with the actual life situations encountered by people, integrate actual learning experiences into the essential theological and ecumenical understanding, and formulate coherent theological statements aligned to Christian ethical values.
- English will be the primary language of instruction and English efficiency will be assessed through interview.
- The primary language for this program will be English. Around 90% of the courses will be taught in English. However, Hanshin University will offer Korean language class which will be needed to interact with the local church and community.
- The program spans two years, or the equivalent of four semesters. To complete the program, students are required to obtain 42 credits: 27 credits of seminar courses, 6 credits of thesis, 2 credits of field education/chapel and 4 credits of Guided Study and 3 credits of Korean language class.

I Admission and Scholarships

The program can accommodate maximum of ten(10) Asian students. Applicants must apply through the application progress. The application form can be downloaded from the Hanshin University homepage:

<http://www.hs.ac.kr/gradseoulcampus/14123/subview.do>

Applications for admission to the Th.M. program are processed once every two years, while application for registration as researcher are open throughout the year.

Eligible applicants must have at least a Bachelor's degree in Theology or higher (B.Th., M.Div., Th.M.). They should have a grade point average of 80/100 or higher, a letter grade of B- or higher, or a single-digit numerical grade of 2.0 or higher.

The scholarship covers 100% of the tuition fee, 100% of the entrance fee and dormitory fee (may subject to change and may not apply to all of applicants). Tuition fee for each semester is 3,659,000 won (approx. 2,730 USD). Additionally, an entrance fee costs 956,000 won (approx. 710 USD). Please note that the scholarship is partial and does not cover the international airfare and living expenses, such as food, during the stay. Students must submit bank statement (certificate of balance) to prove their financial status.

I Accommodation

During the regular semesters, students are accommodated in the dormitory and during the break season.

Lunch is served at the dining hall from Monday to Thursday during the semester. Meals are not served during Friday to weekends and national holidays.

Kitchen for international students is in the dormitory where foreign students can use it freely.

I Library and Usage of Additional Facilities

Students in Studies in Ecumenism and Social Transformation program have full access to the library and internet resources of Hanshin University.

Students in this program are encouraged to attend Korean worship services that are held twice a week at the chapel.

Students may freely use indoor and outdoor sports facilities. There are indoor exercise rooms as well as an outdoor stadium for outdoor activities and a basketball court.

The campus has easy access to the main parts of the city by public transportation such as buses, subway, and taxis.

I Regular Semesters

The regular semesters are the spring semester (from March to June) and the fall semester (from September to December). Each semester is followed by a winter break (from January to February) and a summer break (from June to August).

I Estimated Costs for Year 2026 to 2028 (per year)
